The Department does not discriminate against individuals based on race, color, national origin, sex, gender identity or expression, sexual orientation, religious belief, political belief, handicap or socio-economic status. The prohibition against discriminatory practices extends to the agencies, organizations and institutions that contract with the Department.

- G. The provider utilizes developmentally appropriate evaluation, treatment and interventions.
- H. Providers share concerning behavioral observations relevant to the youth's and/or youth's family functioning and information regarding participation in treatment immediately with the Department's primary worker.

 1. Expanded team members may include the caregiver, extended family members, clinical professionals, school personnel, family court and legal advocates, faith-based affiliations, victim advocates and other identified informal and formal supports.
 2. If such supports are utilized, necessary confidentiality agreements are documented in the youth's case file.
- B. The Department's primary worker collaborates with the team to discuss and approve changes in treatment providers or placements.

IV. Reunification with Non-Offending Parent/Caregiver

- A. If reunification is considered for youth removed from his/her family, the Department's primary worker seeks out the recommendation of the youth's sexual abuse treatment provider regarding reunification planning.
- B. Family reunification can be a long-term process and never takes precedence over the safety of the youth affected by sexual abuse.
- C. Reunification is only considered when the following is accomplished:
 1. The youth has made significant progress toward treatment goals.
 2. The non-offending parent/caregiver has made significant progress toward treatment goals.
 3. The non-offending parent/caregiver has the ability to set age-appropriate boundaries and limits.

 - j. Information related to sex offenders
 5. The non-offending parent/caregiver has demonstrated the ability to:
 - a. Initiate consistent communication with the youth regarding their safety.
 - b. Believe the abuse occurred, has received support and education and accepts that potential exists for future abuse.

- D. Family reunification does not indicate completion of treatment, as needs may arise during the process that require changes to treatment plan goals.
- E. Reunification of the youth with the family only occurs after the caregiver demonstrates the ability to provide protection and support and addresses the needs and risks of the youth.

V. Contact with the Abuser

- A. The provider discusses with the Department's primary worker, the abuser's therapist and custodial parent if contact and/or family reunification with the abuser has been identified to be in the best interest of the youth affected by sexual abuse.
- B. When considered, the provider ensures that contact is victim-centered, based on the victim's need and the clarification process has occurred.
- C. Contact includes verbal or non-verbal communication that may be indirect or direct between the youth and the abuser. Contact is initiated through the clarification process.
- D. The clarification process is lengthy and serves to benefit the youth. The abuser completes written work that may progress to verbal contact prior to, or in lieu of, face-to-face contact.
- E. Clarification and contact procedures are developed in collaboration with the youth, non-offending parent/caregiver, youth's sexual abuse treatment provider, the Department's primary worker and the abuser's therapist, who:
 - 1. Collaborate with the abuser's therapist or advocate, guardian, custodial parent, foster parent and guardian ad litem in making decisions regarding communication, visits and reunification in accordance with any court orders.
 - 2. Support the youth's wishes regarding contact to the extent that it is consistent with the youth's safety and well-being.
- F. If contact is approved, the process is supervised and monitored; it includes:
 - 1. Safety plans that have mechanisms in place to inform involved parties and specifically the Department's primary worker of concerns during contact.
 - 2. An assessment of the youth's emotional and physical safety on a continuing basis; contact is terminated immediately if any aspect of safety is jeopardized.

VI. Reunification with the Abuser

- A. Reunification of a youth affected by sexual abuse and the abuser is considered only if all the elements of Reunification with the Non-Offending Parent (Section IV) and Contact with the Abuser (Section V) are met and it is deemed to be in the best interest of the youth.
- B. Evaluation and treatment for the youth, family and abuser is essential. Reunification is agreed upon by all parties prior to starting the reunification process. Some families may never move beyond supervised or unsupervised visitation; for other families reunification includes the goal of having the youth and abuser reunified and living in the same household.

1. Reunification occurs when the youth, abuser and family are assessed and deemed ready to undergo the reunification process.
 2. Reunification occurs when all youth are safe and protected both emotionally and physically.
- C. Family reunification does not indicate completion of treatment as needs may arise during the process that requires changes to treatment plan goals.

VII. Discharge from Treatment

- A. Prior to discharge from treatment, victim safety is coordinated in conjunction with the youth's parent/caregiver, provider, the Department's primary worker and any other resource providers, as necessary.
- B. Discharge documentation addresses and includes:

- B. Team members may include the youth, caregiver, extended family members, the Department's primary worker, treatment provider, clinical professionals, school personnel, Family Court and legal advocates, law enforcement, faith-based affiliations, peers, therapists, coaches, employers, advocates and other identified informal and formal supports.
