APPENDIX "A"

SUGGESTED EVACUATION PROCEDURES IN CASE OF FIRE

1. SOUND ALARM – Or, per residence policy, call the local Fire Department at:
(Phone #)
2. Implement residence procedures for FIRE:
 - One responsible person only use a fire extinguisher, if appropriate,
 - All other responsible/available persons immediately evacuate residents from building,
 - Residents, visitors, staff in the close vicinity to the fire and upper floors (especially, over the fire) should evacuate the building first.

NOTE FOR DRILLS:

F2 Residences – All residents MUST be capable of self-evacuation (physically and cognitively). This is a criteria based on your building structure and the existing fire code, not just a licensing function.

F1 Residences – Residents may be moved immediately to the pre-identified and marked SAFE areas. Full evacuation should be initiated in cooperation with the on-scene fire coordinator.

3. Residents and staff evacuate the building and go to the following:

Prearranged destination: _____, and await further instructions.

4. DO NOT stop to dress or collect valuables, take a blanket (if convenient) and evacuate the building.
5. DO NOT wedge or prop open any doors, especially fire doors.
6. Neighbors or passers-by should be utilized to assist until arrival of the Fire Department.
7. After all residents evacuate a responsible person should account for all residents, visitors, staff, and notify on-scene fire coordinator of anyone missing.
8. A responsible person should be the last to leave the building and report to the on-scene fire coordinator.

SOUND ALARM – Or, per residence policy, call the local Fire Department:

The reason for a rule such as this is to prevent you from making a mistake that may be fatal to you and residents. In case after case, evidence indicates a contributing factor in major fires is the delay of sounding an alarm. A fire can engulf the whole building in an incredibly short time.

Fire is a treacherous enemy that requires a trained eye to determine the extent of danger involved. What appears to be a minor fire may be concealing a raging furnace within a wall, under a floor, or in an attic. “Sounding the Alarm” immediately notifies the largest number of people to the situation. The fire that appears to be extinguished could reoccur. Fire departments never complain when the fire is out upon their arrival.

IMPLEMENT FIRE PROCEDURES: MAKE AN EMERGENCY PLAN IN ADVANCE.

Plans for emergency situations must be made before the emergency occurs. An emergency plan for temporary accommodation and all other emergency considerations should be made in advance.

- One responsible person only use a fire extinguisher, if appropriate:
After the alarm bell has been rung and the fire department notified/called one responsible person should try to put the fire out using extinguishers or taking other necessary action as APPROPRIATE to the circumstances and their individual training. If the fire is of such nature that more than one person is required to extinguish it, then it is of sufficient size to endanger life. Your first obligation is protecting and saving the lives entrusted to your care.
- Immediately evacuate residents from building:
By having regular fire drills, all residents should know to leave the building when they hear the alarm bell or other FIRE ALARM device.

Designate a place outside where all residents and employees will assemble and be accounted for immediately upon evacuation. Residents should be kept warm and dry, receive attention, and be fed and clothed as needed. Emergency plans should account for movement of residents to larger areas (e.g., heated garages, churches, business and lodge rooms) if necessary.

Strict adherence to protocol during all drills is required of employees and residents so they will respond appropriately during any actual emergency. Instruct any capable ambulatory residents to assist in emergencies.

- Residents near fire or on upper floors should evacuate the building first:
The residents in the same room as a fire or directly over the fire in the case of multi-level residences are in the greatest immediate danger and should be moved first. Residents that are ill or temporarily non-ambulatory due to an episodic health issue (F2 residences) should also receive immediate attention.

Fire will seldom travel laterally as fast as it will travel in an upward path. It is the responsibility of the attendant to use this as a guide to intelligent action.

NOTE FOR DRILLS:

F2 Residences – All residents MUST be capable of self-evacuation (physically and cognitively). This is a criteria based on your building structure and the existing fire code, not just a licensing function.

F1 Residences – Residents may be moved immediately to the pre-identified and marked SAFE areas. Full evacuation should be initiated in cooperation with the on-scene fire coordinator.

FIRE AND FIRE DRILL GUIDANCE

DO NOT stop to dress or collect valuables, take a blanket (if convenient) and evacuate the building.

Everyone's first thought should be preservation/protection of life. Under no circumstance should anyone take time to dress or gather belongings.

DO NOT wedge or prop open any doors, especially fire doors.

Fire doors are designed to keep fire, heat, smoke and life threatening gases from traveling from one part of the building to another. Doors and doorways should never be wedged or propped open or blocked and self-releasing mechanisms should never be tampered with in any way. After all residents are moved from a room, the door should be completely closed.

ENCOURAGE HELP:

Neighbors or passers-by should be utilized to assist until arrival of the Fire Department.

ACCOUNT FOR RESIDENTS:

After all residents evacuate, a responsible person should account for all residents, visitors, staff, and notify on-scene fire coordinator of anyone NOT accounted for.

REPORT:

A responsible person should be the last to leave the building and report to the on-scene fire coordinator.

A residence staff member should document the event in accordance with the residence's procedures and include; pertinent information regarding the process, problems with resident evacuation, problems with the alarm or response system, and recommendations for improvement.

NOTE:

Actual fire events, unscheduled events and false alarms that involve the documented participation by the residents and staff may be counted as a "drill event" in meeting the fire code and licensure fire drill requirements.

ALL employees and residents should read, understand, and participate in drills based on these instructions and their residence's procedures for response to fire and emergencies.
