Agenda Item #6: Superintendent's Report

Dr. Thornton asked that item "C" – CHS Artwork Rental Program be moved to this position so that Mr. Tenreiro – Principal of CHS, could leave for another appointment – the SC approved the request. Mr. Tenreiro talked briefly about the program and how it would work. Local businesses could make a donation to the CHS Art Department in exchange for having framed student work and/or ceramics delivered to their place of business to be displayed for two months – the artwork would be replaced every two months with new pieces. All of the proceeds from the program would go to the CHS Art Department and leftover funds would go to the Mural Program. A member of the audience brought up one question and she asked if the program could also be rent to own – Mr. Tenreiro said he did not know but would find out the answer.

- A. School Improvement Update – Joseph L. McCourt Middle School – Dr. Masterson reported that the school is closing their achievement gaps and is making progress. He reviewed the NECAP results from the fall of 2012 and noted that the results were good – Math gained 6% to be at 66% proficiency and Reading scores were at 74% proficient. Mrs. Coughlin reviewed the scores of students that have IEP's and students that receive reduced lunch – again the numbers were good, most were up in Math and Reading, only a couple of decreases – lots of improvement. Dr. Masterson noted that some major changes to this school year were things like adding a 45 minute block to the students schedule for intervention, screening the students four times/year, data review teams reviewing all of the data, decisions being made are all tiered, decisions are all coded. Ms. Santos reviewed the screening results for January 2013 – she explained the tiers, also how the students are being placed in individual programs for Math, and calculation and application - students are being placed in small groups. She said that students are given specific objectives and they work on them in small groups with their teacher. They are progress monitored. Dr. Masterson noted that for the students that are at benchmark he is asking teachers to develop intervention ideas for Science and other subjects – these ideas have included the Chess Club, Chorus and Music Appreciation, Art Club, Yearbook Club. Ms. Santos broke the data down into student data – she said several students moved to enrichment, others succeeded in their intervention but moved to another intervention priority. She noted that a good number of students have showed growth but have not completed enough to get out or complete the intervention. Mrs. Yacino reviewed rubrics – writing skills – organization – she reviewed scores in each of the sections, showed essay examples, had rubrics associated with each of the essays. She said that students are monitored throughout the year. Dr. Masterson wanted the SC to realize how lucky the district was to be a part of the Gemsnet Program. This program is aligned to the new common core – every time a student completes a new task they analyze the data, discover cause and effect, they do a lot of contrasting and a lot of writing – they become active participants. The Science teachers noted that they get a lot of training and a lot of support – the students are doing a process, making a prediction, recording and organizing data, talking to each other, sharing data with each other and the classroom, writing conclusions. Everyone is extremely pleased and satisfied with the program and how it is progressing. Mrs. Palumbo reviewed DBQ's (Document Based Questioning) for Social Studies. She said the students are using this to write

- it helps students support their conclusions, they write about multiple perspectives, students have more of a focus of what they have to do – they use a rubric to review them, they will get days of practice before they write their final essay. They prepare and then bring it to class – they are able to put their ideas together. Mrs. Palumbo showed some examples of the rubrics. She did go on to say that sighting evidence is a weakness but she feels that this will get better as they work with the DBQ's – eventually they will use all of the documents in the DBQ. Dr. Masterson finished by saying that he appreciated the time given to them and felt that it was very important to do this and wanted to acknowledge all of the staff at McCourt Middle School for their hard work.
- B. 1st Semester District Anti-Bullying Harassment Report – Dr. Masterson noted that the number of incidents has gone up but attributes that to the fact that more and more students are caring about what happens to their peers and are reporting more incidents than they ever have in the past. He noted that the schools counselors are working with the bully's that are repeat offenders and also noted that the students will eventually have exit interviews with Mrs. Coughlin.
