

Greetings –

You recently were sent a Save the Date notice for the upcoming daylong RI Commercial Fluke Symposium to be held on January 27th at the Crowne Plaza in Warwick, RI. The University of Rhode Island and the Department of Environmental Management invite all who are interested in helping to plan for this upcoming symposium to attend a meeting next Tuesday, January 10, at 2pm at the URI Bay Campus, in the Challenger Room in the new OSEC Building. A formal invitation regarding the symposium will be issued next week, following the planning meeting.

URI and DEM look forward to collaborating with the RI commercial fishing community, and other interested parties, in organizing and conducting the symposium. We hope to see you on the 27th regardless of your ability to join in the planning session.

Happy New Year with all best wishes for health and happiness in 2012.

POSTED: 1-6-11